About me

Being creative is what I did when I was younger and still is what I love doing most. I developed this from only working on paper to working digital as well. When I'm interested in something I want to learn as much about it as possible. I'm organised, even if there is too much to do I can still maintain an overview to make sure I won't forget anything. Besides that, getting to know my customers is also something I think is really important.
Eventually I'd love to develop my digital designing skills even more along the way by working in this area of expertise.
